

MCW Guidance: Notifying Subjects of New Study Information

This document was created to provide guidance to investigators and research teams on notifying subjects of new study related information.

One of the required elements of informed consent states that when appropriate, significant new findings that develop during the course of the research relate to the

Notifying Subjects of New Study Information

Addendum to the ICF

- Appropriate for small or minor changes/additions.